

GUATEMALA: Mental health is important! On this #WorldMentalHealthDay we want to share how mental health is just one of the many ways that HopeChest holistically cares for the children and young adults we serve.

In Guatemala, several of our CarePoints provide regular counseling programs for the children. These programs assist children suffering domestic violence, alcoholic parents or other home problems, and also help teenagers navigating addictions and pressures to join gangs. Also, when a tragic event occurs in a community, counselors are brought to help CarePoint children and community members process their grief.
